Sketching Old Houses Provides Pay and Play

READING, ENG.—Technically, I suppose I am out of work; yet never was a body busier. I am still hanging about, waiting to clear up those family affairs—which I could not do if I were working in an office. Meanwhile I have been doing something which certainly fills the gap. For hours at a time—so absorbing is it—I can even forget the war, though that seems impossible till one experiences it.

It all began on one Saturday afternoon, when I set off, a pack the size of a cottage on my back, and cycled into the country to make a sketch of a charming little sixteenth-century house. I thought it would do me good to try my hand at that sort of thing again, for I was feeling stale, news-bored and altogether horrid.

We all know what it is to feel like that at times. It is something to be fought—not encouraged; so I tackled it in the best way I could think. And no sooner had I started than out rushed the owner of the house, I thought for one nasty moment that she was going to shoo me off, but far from it. "Oh!" she exclaimed, with delight in her face, "I've been longing for somebody to do my little house. Will you let me buy it when you're finished?"

Really Useful Work
And that is how it all began. Now I am spending almost all my time in bustling around, paint-box and all; and curiously enough, folk seem to regard it as really useful work. I was a bit afraid at first, in a quiet way, that they would imagine I was somebody slacking about and never doing a hand's turn in these times, but nobody has ever even hinted as much, praise be.

In fact, I have just finished one for a delightful couple; a retired medical missionary and his wife. When I left them—full of happiness to have a sketch of their beautiful home—he said to me, in a lovely way: "Well, good-bye; and God bless your brush, and may it prosper and give pleasure to many. Believe me, you're doing good and useful work in this. There is so much ugliness in the world now, and somebody must try to preserve beauty. You go right on with it."

It is years since I sketched seriously; in fact I thought I had dropped all that for ever; but it is coming back, and I am recapturing the forgotten knack—and finding new ones too. It was my dear friend up in the North who told me to do it, and I am grateful to her for the encouragement she gave me, and the luck her kind words have brought; for it is not easy going to be marking time between jobs naturally. One still has to go on eating and what not.

Cannot Place Me
What interesting people I am meeting! They can't quite make me out at first, of course, and—aren't we a funny nation?—they don't quite know where to "place" me. I can see them wondering if I should be more comfortable having a snack in the kitchen, or taking 'pot-luck' with the family in the dining room. Up to now it has always proved to be the dining room, so I suppose I have managed to make the grade. But you will gather from this that I wear 'my worst rags on these occasions; and why not? Blobs of paint and showers of rain do not add to one's clothing, and I'm taking no chances. Another thing about this is that I seem to be filling a gap in the Christmas present crisis; for what can one buy now? Coupons and 'points' have put an end to candies and clothing; and there is another angle too, I find; people want pictures of 'home' to 'show the boys when they come back' for one never knows in these days of blitzes, does one?

Handsome Canadians
Everywhere I go there are Canadians new; jolly, handsome fellows, always ready with a cheery word and a greeting. They look healthy and happy, and one told me yesterday that he is so contented here that "it will be hard work" to get him out of England when the war is over.

Another—now looking the picture of health—is recovering from an extraordinary accident. He broke his neck—believe it or not—and the surgeons have put him right, after months of work on him. He tells me that he knows of nine similar cases, all on the road to recovery. When he came round, after the accident, his entire body was paralyzed, but now nobody would guess that anything had happened to him, so splendid does he look.

Then there was the very large young man who (naturally) is known as 'Tiny'. He is an ex-policeman, having entered the Force when he left Oxford, where he was studying. The Battle of Britain put him out of action, both his feet being injured during rescue work in a blitz. During that episode he was busy rescuing a girl who had been hanging upside down from a rafter for seven hours and the young woman, when she was brought out by Tiny, was full of apologies for being caught in such an undignified position. It worried her more than anything else. But poor Tiny's best friend was killed beside him—and how he hates the Paper-hanger's Boys for it!

By the way, his name—a very unusual one—is Muttiebury, and he thinks his only living relatives are in Canada. He would be tremendously interested to get word from any Muttieburys, so if a letter should come my way—well, I'll see that it's forwarded to the right quarter.

Worse Than Torpedo
And I must not forget the charming, bright-eyed young woman who had just been torpedoed on her way back from Australia. "The maddening part of it is," she said, "I've lost my fur coat." Her healthy body and mind have shaken off the effects of that adventure, but she is going to feel the want of that fur coat for many months, with another winter almost on top of us, you may be sure.

My sketching adventures have also brought me in touch with a little woman who is doing wonderful work; looking after evacuated children from East End London. She has half a dozen at a time in her cottage, and a nice handful they are, to be sure. But she manages; and she said to me: "Can you tell the overseas people how grateful I am to the Red Cross? Those Canadian supplies for instance. I've known a delicate child to change completely in a fortnight on the dried milk, for example. It's been the making of lots of them." Well, there's the message anyway; and I seem to have a lot of messages this time, don't I? But it all shows the right spirit. "Get through to our friends over there," is what people are saying to me, in one way and another, all the time.

That is the real feeling, and I, for one, deeply mistrust anything else. Who knows how those occasional whiffs of criticism are sent out? Any body with any horse-sense would suspect the source of them. Occasional grumblings there always will be, since we're all human, but, speaking for myself, I have never met a first-hand authentic case for real complaint. There are naughty boys and girls, all the world over, just as there are always little jealousies, no matter where one goes; but if we were living in a perfect world there wouldn't be a war on at all, would there?

So I, in my small way, go on waving a hand or calling out 'Good luck!' when I see any of the Canadian boys on the road; and I certainly mean it. And if I happen to have a Canadian newspaper in my pack it always finds a welcome in the pocket of somebody's tunic.

Oil Gas Seen
at Edgerton Well
What is described as "a fine showing of oil and gas" was struck Sunday at 2,469 feet in No. 1 well of Edgerton Oil syndicate, R. V. Price, Edgerton, said Monday. The well is seven miles southwest of Edgerton.

The well, in what the syndicate hopes may prove to be a new field, will be placed under test within a few days by Haliburton Oil Well Cementing company, Vermilion, he added. The showing was described by C. H. Withers, driller, Vermilion, as one of the finest he had seen in that part of the province, Mr. Price said.

One of the favorites on the sober side, that we know our listeners enjoy greatly, is "Comrades in Arms". During the long months when the Canadian forces were manning the Island Fortress and making ready for the vital part they are to play in breaking down the axis ramparts, "Comrades in Arms", the combined operations broadcast, brought a week of report of their activities to listeners of the CBC. Today "Comrades in Arms" goes into the forward areas, alongside of the attacking ranks of Canada's land forces to bring their story to the home folk.

The moment any Canadian fighting force goes into action on land, at sea and in the air, public relations officers of the Canadian Army, the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force commence their work of gathering material of news interest. Their reports are sent by the fastest possible means to Canada, for use on the air and in the press. Public relations officers have also as their duty, the expediting of reports written by war correspondents and by members of the CBC's own Overseas Unit. Heard over CICA at 8:15 p.m. Fridays.

We are reminded that Kate Smith introduced the song "God Bless America" about 5 years ago—that it became a "national anthem" within a few weeks—that President Roosevelt is reported responsible for Kate's singing of the song in "This is the Army", that Kate has an article in the Current True Story magazine—and that her recorded program for the boys in the services is now enjoyed by CICA listeners. Kate Smith is everyone's favorite singing star, and is heard on CICA at 2:30 on Monday and again at 7:00 on Saturdays. Hope to see you then.

Junior Park Wardens

The arrival of the summer season always brings to most Canadian schoolboys a longing for life out-of-doors, away from hot classrooms, books and blackboards. They dream of scouting through the woods, riding horse back, discovering wild animals in their native haunts, and all the other interesting things of nature that fill a boy's heart with delight and wonder.

This year an opportunity has been given to a number of boys under sixteen years of age, mostly members of the Boy Scouts Association, to realize some of their fondest dreams. They have been enrolled as Junior Park Wardens in the national parks, and are assisting the regular Park Wardens in such work as the prevention and detection of forest fires, protection of game and other wild life, supplying information to tourists and doing whatever other tasks may be required of them for the welfare of the national park in which they are operating.

Some of the older boys accompany regular Park Wardens on less arduous patrols and take part in weekend hikes in order to gain a wider experience and knowledge of the park service. They are taught something of the geography (and perhaps the geology) of the park areas, so that they will be able to give accurate and intelligent information to park visitors.

The boys wear a smart uniform complete with red tunic, shirt, green hat and tie, and of course their badge of office. In addition, the Chief Junior Warden displays a star to indicate his rank and authority. They are at all times specially alert to any attempt by enemy agents to sabotage our forests during wartime.

Even though many of these boys may not have the inclination or aptitude for the life of a Park Warden as a definite career, they will at least have learned something of the importance of protecting our great national heritage of forest and wild life resources.

CRANK CASE OIL

Drained crank case oil is not a good lubricant for farm machines or for a satisfactory oil for painting buildings. It is valuable only after it has been cleaned. It may then be used as oil in the material for top lubrication, or it may be put back in the crank case of the engine for engine lubricating.

Here's news, Pacific coast salmon, a favorite food, will likely be lower in price than otherwise, and if the run is good supplies will be available for Canadian tables. Prices Board, fishermen and department have come to an agreement. Previous order setting maximums and price to fishermen revoked.

Follows Father as C.P.R. Vice-President

Eric A. Leslie (left), newly appointed vice-president and controller of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, is carrying on a family tradition in that high position for his father, John Leslie (right), was vice-president and controller of the company from 1926 until 1928 at which time he became vice-president of finance and treasurer, a position he retained until 1932 when he retired after more than half a century of railway work. The new vice-president and comptroller is 48 years old and has been associated with the company for 30 years. His record was broken by attendance at McGill University on a Canadian Pacific scholarship and three years overseas service in the Great War as a lieutenant with the Canadian Artillery. He won two medals as a student—the Governor General's Silver Medal at Montreal High School and the British Association Medal in transportation at McGill University where he graduated from the Faculty of Applied Science.

Liquor Ration Now Cut Again

Slashing reductions in the amounts of beer and hard liquor allowed Alberta liquor permit holders were announced Monday by the Alberta Liquor Control Board, effective immediately, and are now in operation.

The individual quotas which go in to effect allow: hard liquor (spirits) 13 fluid ounces; wine, 26 ounces; and beer, six large or 12 small bottles, for the month of August.

In addition to the reductions allowed permits, more exacting regulations in regard to permits have been issued.

Applicants for permits to replace those lost or destroyed will not be considered until November, and new permits issued from, and after Aug. 2nd will not entitle the holder to purchase an amount of spirits in excess of 15 ounces in any one month.

Holders of permits issued before Aug. 2nd, however, will be given the option of purchasing the quota of spirits for one, two, or three months, to the extent of available supplies in containers larger than 15-ounce. The Liquor Control Board has a quantity of spirits in 40-ounce containers and these will be placed on sale.

The purchaser of a 40-ounce container will exhaust his quota for the three months of August, September and October, and permits will be so endorsed. A purchase of a 26-ounce container will exhaust a quota for two months.

Only one bottle of spirits, regardless of size, may be bought during the month.

The July rations were: hard liquor, 26 ounces; beer, 24 small bottles; and wine, 26 ounces.

The new quota reductions have been made necessary, it was stated by officials, because of the substantial increase in the number of permits issued, and the reduced supplies available. It is anticipated the new allotments will provide an equitable distribution of stocks for the period ending October 31, 1943.

Local Girl Weds at Coast

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, July 20th, in St. Mary's Anglican church, Vancouver, when Miss Lois Irene Arthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Arthur of Auburn Lake, became the bride of Mr. Arthur Olson, son of Mrs. Olson of Gilt Edge Alta.

The Rev. W. Barlow, rector, performed the ceremony. The bride was charming in a blush rose crepe, and carried a corsage of sweetheart roses. She was attended by Mrs. W. J. Roberts, as matron of honor. Mr. Bill Roberts attended the groom.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roberts, after which the happy couple left on a short honeymoon.

ACI and Mrs. W. Huntingford are here holidaying with their parents while Walter is on furlough from his R.C.A.F. duties.

Mr. H. U. Taylor and family are spending a holiday at Cold Lake and Edmonton, before Harold returns to his duties at the M.D. office.

Mr. M. C. Scott, administration officer, from Edmonton Wartime Prices and Trade Board, was in town last week for a few days.

When the House is in committee discussing departmental estimates, a table is brought in on the Floor immediately in front of the Minister at bat. Here sit deputies who quickly furnish him information on questions which are popped with astonishing regularity from the benches. Atmosphere is quite informal, but often very electric. How they pick those items to pieces, bit by bit. It looks to me like a Minister has to be a cross between a shadow boxer and professor of universal knowledge.

CARD OF THANKS

In saying farewell to our many friends and customers of the long years past, we express our heartfelt thanks for all your good wishes and patronage, and bespeak a continuance of the same for our successors, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. B. McLeod, Heath, Alta.

Local Ration Board Holds Special Meeting

Minutes of Special Meeting of Local Ration Board E22 was held Tuesday, July 27th, with the following members present: Messrs. Taylor, chairman; Shaw; Coleman, and Mrs. Mackenzie and Mrs. King; with Miss D. Peacock acting secretary for Mr. W. Huntingford.

Mr. C. M. Scott, of the Administration office in Edmonton, was in attendance, explained the set-up, and plans for issuing the new Ration Book No. 3 at the end of August. Leaflets D.C. 1-2-3-4 were read and explained to the members.

Moved by Mr. Coleman—that Mr. Schlitt be made convenor of the distribution committee for Ration Book No. 3 with Mrs. J. A. Mackenzie as his assistant.—Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Mackenzie—that Corl. Miller, of the R.C.M.P., be named as an additional member to the board and his name be forwarded as such to the regional office.—Carried.

Damages 'Phone Line Farmer Is Fined

Shooting at telephone lines carrying international circuits associated with the war effort is a most serious offence and will not be, considered in future, Magistrate Arthur Beaumont, K.C., warned Frank Nelson in Royal Canadian Mounted Police court here Saturday morning as he fined the 26-year-old Warner farmer $25 and $4 costs or six months at hard labor for wilfully damaging telephone lines.

Nelson pleaded guilty to the offence.

In passing sentence, His Worship stated that if he felt that the accused did the damage deliberately and with full knowledge of what the results might be, he would not hesitate in imposing the maximum sentence of two years' imprisonment. He warned the accused and others who might be similarly careless with their shooting that severe penalties could be expected for such offences in future.

Nelson, the court was told, disrupted international telephone circuits between Dawson Creek, B.C., and Washington when he shot at two insulators on a pole near his farm home and broke the two main trunk wires they held.

For several years, Crown Prosecutor L. E. Fairbairn, K.C., told the court, telephone company officials have been reporting smashed insulators on the poles near Nelson's farm.

On June 30 last, the two main trunk wires were found broken, severed by bullets, and putting the Dawson Creek-Washington circuit out of commission. Consequently, the circuits could only be restored by re-routing through Seattle of Winnipeg at great expense to the Alberta Government Telephones.

Due to the nature of the messages carried by the circuit, explained Mr. Fairbairn, the disruption was obviously of grave importance. The offence could not be treated lightly.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT OF YUGOSLAV KING

The year-old secret engagement of Princess Alexandra of Greece and King Peter of Yugoslavia was announced formally Saturday by Mimi-las Trifonovic, premier of the Yugoslav government. No date has been set for the wedding. Alexandra's mother, Princess Aspasia, explained that "we want to hear good news of the war before anything else."

The marriage has been approved by the Yugoslav government and both royal families.

WAR RESTRICTIONS CUT LICENSES BY 2,000

Gasoline rationing and tire restrictions have reduced the number of cars "on the road" by 2,000 from the number in operation in Calgary and the immediate surrounding district before the war.

The total number of automobile licenses issued so far this year is 12,355; compared with 13,130 up to the end of July, 1942.

Auto license officials said that before the war approximately 14,000 license plates were issued by the end of July each year.

Moved by Mr. Shaw—that Mr. R. Kingston of Edgerton and Mrs. Sigurdson of Chauvin be appointed as representatives of the board in their respective districts and given authority to sign certain forms, and some suitable person to be appointed in Irma at a later date.

Mr. Coleman was appointed by the members to act as vice-chairman of the board during the absence of Mr. H. Taylor and Mr. W. Huntingford.

Moved by Mrs. King—that the meeting then adjourn.—Carried.

Sawfly Menace Is Out of Control

Ravages of the wheat stem sawfly will cost prairie farmers 25,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, according to Dr. C. W. Farstad, federal entomologist at Lethbridge. He is in charge of wheat stem sawfly research work.

Until a few years ago, little damage was done to crops by sawflies, but infestation of this pest increased and in 1941 serious damage was wrought over a broad strip of territory running across the prairie provinces. Last year the damage was somewhat restricted, owing possibly to the lush growth of grain. This season crops are light, the infestation is widespread, and the losses will be heavy.

The sawfly causes loss through laying eggs in the stocks of standing wheat. The grub that is hatched out goes down the inside of the grain stock until it is at the surface of the ground. It then turns around and cuts off the grain a few inches above the ground and seals itself in the remaining portion of the stubble. The first wind that comes along flattens the injured stalk to the ground, particularly if the crop is light. The prone grain cannot be raised by binders or combines and thus is a total loss.

Successful methods have been devised to fight the sawfly menace. The infected farm can be sown to oats barley or flax, which grains are not attacked by the sawfly. An alternative measure which has proved successful is to plant rod-wide trap strips of wheat around the field to the general crop, as early in the spring as possible. When the crop of wheat is sown later on, a strip of bare ground is left between it and the trap strip and is kept cultivated until the second week in July. The trap strip is then cut and stacked and the sawfly grubs are thus destroyed.

The trap strip scheme is devised from the knowledge that the sawflies coming out of the stubble of the previous year's crop first encounter the strip and proceed to lay their eggs in the wheat growing therein. Being an insect averse to long flights, the sawfly does not cross the strip of cultivated land to the main crop and the great bulk of the eggs are laid in the grain growing in the trap strip.

There seems no reason to doubt that many farmers were lulled into a sense of false security because of the lack of sawfly damage last year and did not take proper precautions. This is unfortunate as the sawfly is a No. 1 public enemy if prairie wheat crops and its eradication must be pursued relentlessly and persistently to avoid heavy annual losses.

No increase in butter ration, officials say. Your little mealtime pat works for victory. Increased stocks not abnormal, but consumption higher. Every time a coupon comes due, they have to provide for 5,700,000 lbs. weekly. To build up reserve stocks for winter, as production lags, they need at least 70 million pounds. Although the 795,000 bushels of

WAINWRIGHT, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4th, 1943

VISION OF CANADA

One of the sad characteristics of Canada as a nation has been the tendency to depreciate ourselves, to belittle our achievement and to hesitate before the uncertainty of tomorrow.

In the little of good that can be said for war let us admit that, while it has brought to Canada sorrow and continuing loss, it has jolted us out of the attitude of complacent self-effectiveness. It has made plain to us the vastness of our national heritage and what is more difficult for us to believe, it has demonstrated our own ability to master those resources. Today Canada ranks among the great manufacturing nations, her production exceeded among the United Nations only by Russia and Britain and the United States.

Canada's industrial accomplishment has been an Aladdin's dream.
Ship-building, once a matter of a baker's dozen of ships a year, is now a great industry, producing almost as many every week. This week, and every week of the year, Canada's munition plants will turn out better than half a million rounds of heavy ammunition and fifty times that volume of small arms. Our airplane industry has turned out more than 8,000 planes—more than Britain owned when she first faced the war. We have shipped to Russia more than 1,400 tanks and have built, besides, another 1,700. Of military and fighting vehicles, 4,450 roll off the assembly line every week.

We have doubled our peacetime output of iron and steel. We are producing in Canada today more aluminum than was produced in the whole world in 1939, and are supplying 40 per cent of the total requirements of the United Nations. We are providing 95 per cent of the Allies' nickel, 75 per cent of the asbestos, 20 per cent of the zinc and mercury, 15 per cent of the lead, and 12½ per cent of the copper.

"Never again," as the Hon. C. D.
Howe, who supplied these figures, has said—"never again can there be any doubt that Canada can manufacture anything that can be manufactured elsewhere."

These are the accomplishments of Canadian effort and initiative and daring; and a Canada that was equal to this miracle of accomplishment for war will not be less effective in planning for peace, or in making those plans come true.

But the faint heart is using even these accomplishments as arguments against us. "What will become of those great plants," they ask,
"when the greedy demands of war are over?"

What the faint hearts are saying today, they were saying a quarter century ago. They were saying that you couldn't perpetuate in peace a business built on war. We are surely within our rights when we bring the record of history to answer this complaint. The four years of the last war tripled Canada's exports of the five preceding years. It couldn't last, the the statement.

FACTS ABOUT WEEDS

There are countries where land ownership is not outright and the farmer's tenure can be terminated if he fails to keep it in good order. Excessive weed infestation is taken as sufficient evidence of neglect. In Canada there are situations where land reverting to mortgage holders may continue under the occupancy of the farmer, when he accepts supervision of his operations from agents of the holders, becomes productive again in many cases.

In all western and some eastern provinces there are Weed Control Acts which designate what plants shall be deemed noxious weeds, and require every occupant (or owner) of land to destroy these as may be necessary to prevent the ripening of their seeds. That is the law; but in view of the frailties of human nature, the Acts further provide penalties as a last resort, and inspectors who are to ascertain any failure to heed the law. After first notifying delinquents inspectors may prosecute or cause to be cut, at the crop owner's expense, such limited part of the crop as may be required all within certain regulations.

In the course of his duties, the competent weed inspector does much more than "spit" upon the farmer.
He can be a counsellor with the farmer upon weed matters. He is the "eyes" of the Department concerning the advent and spread of new weeds.
The difficulties in the way of the successful working of Weed Acts may appear unsurmountable. Known defects can be remedied, but the greatest weakness of all—the personal equation—requires special attention. Weeds are no trifle in the national economy.

when the weather is warm and your spirits need a "lift"?

Lemonade is a beverage even a child can prepare. For each person, extract the juice from one lemon.
Add sugar to taste and stir to dissolve. Add one cup water and serve over ice in a large glass. Garnish with lemon slices and maraschino cherries or with fresh cherries, berries or mint sprigs.

As an accompaniment to this beverage, tangy, crunchy cookies are just the thing these days. Fresh Lemon Oatmeal cookies are easy on rationed things like butter and sugar;
they're easy to make and they're easy to bake. The crunchiness of whole-grain oatmeal united with the zest of the fresh lemon juice and graded yellow peel used in the cookie ingredients, provides health in every bite. The whole grain oats furnish vitamin B1, proteins, phosphorus and iron, and again the lemon furnishes many benefits already mentioned.

Here's the way we prepare them:

Fresh Lemon Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, unbeat
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1½ cups quick or regular, uncooked
oats
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1. Cream shortening, gradually add sugar, creaming until light and fluffy.
- 2. Add eggs and beat vigorously.
- 3. Add lemon juice and grated lemon peel and water.
- 4. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder.
- 5. Add sifted dry ingredients and oats, mixing well.
- 6. Drop from a teaspoon onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 12-15 minutes. Decorate tops of cookies with bits of lemon peel.

Among those who attended the Lloydminster Fair last week were the Spornitz, Pattersons, Fords and McTurks.

LEMON CAKE-TOP

PUDDING FOR THE CROWD

Next time you plan a church supper or lodge dinner be sure to include Lemon Cake-Top Pudding on the menu as dessert. It's an economical pudding and is easily prepared in large quantities—both chief prequisites when serving a number of people. What's more, with today's point requirements, this pudding has added benefits in that it requires only small amounts of rationed ingredients.

Another reason why this pudding is a "must" for serving large groups is the fact that it is good as is and needs no sauce or fancy frill to complete the service. That's a time saver you'll agree, for often the extra touches require more time than that required to prepare the original dish.

Lemon Cake-Top Pudding

Cream:
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter

Add:
2 egg yolks, beaten
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup milk

Fold in:
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Bake in an 8-inch unbuttered pudding dish or individual custard cups, set in a pan of warm water. Bake 35 minutes in oven (360 - 375 deg. F.)
Will form a cake top with a layer of custard below. Serves 4 to 6.

BACON FAT AND CREAM SAUCE

SAVORY VEGETABLE AFFINITIES
Butter sauce and delicious vegetables are traditional affinities, but there are other appetizing ways to garnish at least part of the family's vegetable quota if you find the butter ration running low.

Bacon fat is a savory butter substitute that's a favorite accompaniment to vegetables in the deep South.
By investing four ration points in a package of quick-frozen green beans and using three strips of bacon, you can manage a delicious meat-flavored entree that won't require a bit of butter. Lima beans, too, have an affinity for bacon, and quick-frozen Lima beans are a thrifty buy with a twelve ounce package providing four servings for four ration points.

Another method of stretching the butter ration is to serve vegetables with top milk, slightly warmed.
Cream sauce can be utilized to make a little butter go farther.

Green Beans, Southern Style

- 1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen Lima beans, thawed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 cup boiling water
- 4 slices bacon

Arrange Lima beans in shallow baking dish. Add salt, pepper, and boiling water. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 1 hour, or until done. Place bacon slices on top of bean mixture after it has baked 35 minutes. Serve 4, at a cost of one ration point each.

"Stamp Out The U-Boat"

Here is how we can help to make possible the action shown in the above two pictures. The upper photo shows a depth charge being placed in position, ready for its forward plunge in the direction of a Nazi U-Boat. The lower picture shows what depth charges can do to enemy U-Boats. One depth charge costs $90. It contains 350 pounds of high explosive and can sink or damage the large U-Boat. The purchase of 360 War Savings Stamps is sufficient to endanger the life of one U-Boat. Northern Alberta's sixty rural Units are asked to contribute $23,000 or 255 depth charges towards stamping out the U-Boat menace. This means that Northern Alberta residents can be instrumental in re-enacting the above scene 255 times in the near future.

Enough Twine, No More, For Crops; Navy, Merchant Marine Reserve Rest

MERCHANT NAVY MEN SPICE MILES OF TWINE IN HAWSEYS

Better tie a string around your finger to remind yourself to go easy on twine and rope. There's enough binder twine to tie up this year's crop—that is, if the crop is normal—but it must be used sparingly on the farms if there's to be enough to provide for emergency demands. Trouble is the shortage of hard fibre, according to the Department of Munitions and Supply. In peacetime, binder twine was made from Java and African hard fibres. Today, the limited supply of these best quality fibres is being reserved for the Navy and ocean going Merchant Marine. Best available substitute for the hard fibres comes from Mexico. This will be used to manufacture 60,000,000 pounds for use on Canadian farms. Despite the poorer quality, the new binder twine is expensive to make. To maintain the present price level, the government will subsidize imports. Farmers can help by using twine sparingly and by making sure equipment is in good condition so that it will cut threads cleanly and without wastage. They can also help by taking care of their rope to make it last as long as possible.

By Dr. K. W. Neathby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Lias Elevators Association

Autumn-Sown Grasses and Legumes

There are, no doubt, large areas in the prairie provinces which will be devoted to straight grain farming for many years to come. In most districts, however, a reasonable acreage of grass, or grass and alfalfa mixed, is good for the farmer and good for the farm.

A great many farmers have been discouraged because attempts to "get a catch" of grass have failed. Failure is commonly due to (a) sowing too deeply, (b) no protection from soil drifting and (c) sowing at the wrong time. In some years and some districts, the use of nurse crops has also caused disappointment.

Since the autumn is, alas, not very far away, and since autumn-sowing of grasses is becoming more and more popular, we think it wise to draw attention to some experimental work done at Saskatoon and published in "Scientific Agriculture" (Vol. 23, No. 7). The following statements are derived from this publication and the authors are Dr. W. J. White and Mr. W. H. Horner.

1. Sweet clover should not be sown in autumn.
2. Crested wheat grass, brome grass, slender wheat grass and alfalfa may be sown in autumn if:—
(a) Sowing is early enough to establish good-sized seedlings (late August to early September), or
(b) Just before freeze-up, so that seeds don't germinate until spring.
3. Better results are obtained by sowing in stubble or weeds than on bare summerfallow.

Since conditions vary from place to place, it is wise to consult the nearest experimental farm or the local agricultural representative.
